

CV Report for Job: developer node

Score: 75/100

Analysis

The candidate demonstrates experience with Node.js and Angular, aligning with the job requirements. However, the experience level and specific project details need further clarification. The CV is written in French, which may be a barrier depending on the company's language preference.

Insights

Experience with Node.js and Angular is a strong match for the job description.
Multiple web development internships showcase practical experience.
Freelance work demonstrates initiative and self-employment skills.

Weaknesses

The CV is in French. This might hinder the review process for non-French speaking recruiters.
Lack of quantifiable achievements in project descriptions. Adding numbers (e.g., "increased website traffic by 20%") would strengthen the impact.
The experience level ("master") needs more context. Is this a master's degree or equivalent professional experience?
